

Greetings,

Down here in Durham it seems as the hot summer weather leaves and the cooler weather arrives, we continue to get showered with "HOT" jazz albums from a myriad of fantastic labels. As the new Jazz Director for this year, my staff and I will promise to give all albums received the most careful listenings. I hope that if you have any questions regarding our playlist or your records, you will feel free to contact me; after all, I hope to play the best jazz on the air, and, of course, this includes your label.

Around town, Paul Jeffrey, Duke's Jazz Artist-In-Residence, recently led a quintet with Freddie Redd at piano at the Artschool in Carrboro. The music of Bud Powell and Thelonious Monk were featured in their two sizzling sets. As well, the McCoy Tyner Quartet is coming to Raleigh on Friday, September 12th... And, of course, we're all awaiting Pat Metheny's October concert in Charlotte. As you can see, jazz is very much alive in North Carolina and thank you for helping it to stay that way.

Please keep in touch,
